As I pointed out yesterday this reaction is going to be worth watching because it may disclose the true temper of the Chinese Reds over an issue that involves their pride and their future policy. Their first reaction points, but strikes no hammer blow. It shows signs of having been compiled hastily and none too expertly. It was a broadcast by the Peiping radio, heard in San Francisco by the Associated Press.

There were two separate items. The first was a "news story" from Nanking by the Communist New China News agency, giving the Amethyst's dramatic escape. The second is the agency's own comment.

The account attributes every-

According to the agency, he lets himself go. The Amethyst, he says, forced a passing steamer, the Kiangling, to serve as a shield as she started her "infamous" escape. The Amethyst then sank her as well as a number of junks trying to rescue survivors in the water. Several hundred were drowned, says Yuan, who also charged that British naval negotiations for the Amethyst's release were merely to stall for time while she prepared to to construct a special laboratory to hasten processing and packaging the isotopes shipments for distribution throughout this country

they tancied and everybody said how wonderful they were that they kept the keen enjoyment of youth and that they didn't let their chil-dren be a burden on them as so many people did and so on and And all of us know dozens of men and women dependent on their children in their old age who could have been independent if themselves and lay up something for their old age. But they pre-terred to eat, drink and be merry and to indulge themselves in every luxury while they were young and could enjoy things and to leave it to their children to bear the burden of their support when they were old.

Nothing could be more cruelly seltish than these parents who sacrificed their children to their own pleasures. They have no right to evade their responsibilities, no right to lay their burdens on weak young shoulders. They have had their youth, their playtime and they should not rob their children of theirs.

The Peter Pans who never grow up are only admirable in fiction. In real life they are contemptible quitters who are too cowardly to assume a man's and woman's obligations. And they are doubly contemptible when they steal from a young girl her playtime and her chance of perhaps marrying a man on whom she could depend more than she can on her father. DCROTHY DIX

If you cut a telephone cable in two, you'd see that it was full of wires-a hundred. This cable will carry 50 conversations at once, each taking two wires.

Fifty pairs of wires, serving fifty telephones. But let's say this telephone cable runs through a neighborhood where not 50, but 200 families need telephone service.

By sharing the lines among them -four families to each line-all can have telephones. Some families prefer four-party service. Others will want two-party or individualline telephones when they are available. But for the time being it is best, we think, that as many families as possible get service through sharing.

Party-line service is as good as Vaughan was duly blasted. Robert E. Stripling, the investigator of the committee on un-American back and the heart of our ball club. But eyen as great as he is the best expert on Communist plot-ting that congress had. Even in the army, the fear persisted. Stripling was kept in the ignominious status of yard-bird for months, although he had had two years of military training and was an invaluable authority on counter-intelligence. Later and repeatedly since the war the yard bird has lectured to gencrals on this specialty.

Partly as a result of those pretty consistent leaks to Pearson's 'legman,' Berle and his associates saw that the ultra-secret intelligence, the intercepted foreign codes, the stuff that was called "magic," never went outside Berle's own safe.

'I took them personally to the under-secretary, the secretary of state," he said. "Other people besides Mr. Hiss could give leaks to Washington columnists. Stripling's part in the expose of Katz, alias Karr, actually was secondary. This occurred in April, 1943, when Dr. J. B. Matthews, the

Total Expenditures $275,825

To provide for the foregoing prepared budget of receipts and expenditures the Board of Directors proposes a tax levy of 18 mills. This ment of present indebtedness.

The net total tax of 16 mills under 1949-50 shows 95% collection of the same assessed valuation of $5,035,275. For the school year 1950-51, the same assessed valuation is fluared in determining the net local tax of 16 mills, 95% collection, on the 1948 assessed valuation as it is indeposated at this time to determine what increase we will have in the 1849 in 1949 is increased approximately $1,750,000 this District will have a deficit of $29,616 for the school year 1950-51 because state revenue for annual school election on September 27, 1949. Therefore, the Board of ments to offset the loss of state and local revenue for the school year 1950-51. This District is not raising its millione at the Beducation is depending upon an equalization and increase of assessing the school year 1950-51. This will be necessary if the Hope School District is to mean tain the school program in 1950-51 that would be on a par with the school year 1943-56.

We sincercly hope that all tax payers of Hope School District will market their real and personal property is assessed at 80% normal Board when it meets in August.
